

Genuine Diesel Spares

Our diesel engines represent an outstanding investment in terms of their quality and technical excellence. Recognised throughout the world as the very best-in-class, they continue to set and deliver the highest standards in durability, reliability and efficiency.

As the original equipment manufacturer of the MAN, Mirreles Blackstone, Paxman, Ruston and Pielstick product ranges, MAN Diesel & Turbo is the only company that knows how to manufacture the spare parts for these engines to the highest quality standards so that they deliver the best overall lifetime performance.

Lifetime costs and best value

For most businesses, the choice of a spare parts supplier is understandably influenced by financial considerations and in this context, OEM spares can be perceived as the expensive option.

Evaluate the full lifetime costs together with the need to maximise running time and maintain optimum operational efficiency though and it becomes clear that MAN Diesel & Turbo spares actually represent the best value for money option.

Guaranteed reliability

All our spare parts – whether new or remanufactured – are fit for purpose and manufactured to our original specifications.

All parts are guaranteed by detailed identification to ensure that they meet the latest design specification and are quality assured to ISO9001 standards. Each component is supplied with a twelve month product warranty – a warranty that we stand by and one which our customers can trust us to fulfil, should the situation arise.

Worldwide service

Our highly competitive spare parts service is backed up by access to decades of engineering expertise and experience. Experts from MAN Diesel & Turbo are available worldwide to offer immediate help, wherever and whenever it is required.

Our in-house technical staff can be contacted 24/7 and further support is available through the MAN Diesel & Turbo website.

Rapid availability

We hold extensive stocks of all major units and key consumables at our state-of-the-art warehouse facility in Stockport to ensure availability direct from stock wherever possible. Equipped with its own packing and transportation facilities, our Stockport Service Centre is responsible for the prompt despatch of genuine MAN spare parts to customers all over the world.

Fast track quotation and order processing

Our Customer Support Team uses the latest technology to ensure that quotations are processed as quickly as possible. Orders are automatically tracked and customers are regularly updated on the progress of their order via email or telephone.

We also offer rapid order processing with a 24-hour turn around service in emergency situations, helping to minimise downtime and return your engine to service as rapidly as possible.
